3,989 High School Seniors Nominated by 3,060 Critics

'Most Representative Squad,' Declares Wigwam Chief; Interest Quickened by Support of The Sporting News

By RAY GILLESPIE

Once again, THE SPORTING NEWS presents for its readers exclusive coverage of the complete selections for the 1957 National High School All-America football team. A record number of 3,989 prep seniors drew nominations from 3,060 gridiron critics, including 1,402 sports writers on daily newspapers, 1,243 radio sports announcers and 415 television sports commentators. Coaches, gridiron officials and college football talent scouts also chipped in with their recommendations to make this probably the most representative team ever chosen.

Complete data for the selection of this eleventh annual Prep All-America team was assembled by Mose Simms, chairman of the football committee of the Wigwam Wisemen of America, a benevolent organization of this city's sportsmen who originated the Prep All-America football idea 11 years ago.

Exceptional interest in the 1957 All-America selection was attributed greatly, according to Simms, to the personal touch of Publisher J. G. Taylor Spink of THE SPORTING NEWS, who last year presented certificate awards of congratulations to the players on the first seven teams, as well as members of the honorable mention list. These awards were presented to the youths by the radio and TV stations in their immediate home town areas.

Two Extra Backs on Team
"For the first time," announced Simms, "we divided the nation into eight districts and had direct reports from prep football authorities in each section. I really believe this is the most representative team we've ever presented. However, the voting was so spirited and close that in the backfield we wound up with an extra fullback and halfback on the team—Mike Lind, Calumet High, Chicago, and Jim Josephson, Bellarmine High, San Jose, Calif. So, with the 11 regular players, plus the two additional players who tied for positions, we had to place 13 boys on the first team."

Broken down into sections, the Midwest (Tyrone, Pa., Evansville, Ind., Lansing, Mich., and Chicago) landed four places on the 1957 mythical selec-

Sons of Musial and Carpenter Chosen Among Nation's Best

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.—Dick Musial, son of Stan (The Man) of the Cardinals, and Bob Carpenter, son of the president of the Phillies, were among the nation's outstanding high school football seniors named to the All-America Prep squad for 1957. Young Musial, 179-pound back of the Christian Brothers College High team of St. Louis, was placed at fullback on the sixth team, while young Carpenter, 190-pound backfield star at Tower Hill, Delaware, landed a spot on the seventh team.

Musial had his biggest day last November 3, when he spoiled "Homecoming Day" for C. B. C.'s traditional rival, St. Louis U. High, by scoring three touchdowns in an 18 to 12 triumph over the Junior Billikens.

The Far West (San Jose, Calif., and Tacoma, Wash.) had two; the South (Little Rock, Ark., Brookhaven, Miss., and Memphis, Tenn.) had three; the Southwest (Austin, Tex., and Ada, Okla.) had a pair; the Northeast (Natick, Mass.) one; and the Southeast (Wilson, N. C.) one.

Explaining that he traveled over 11,000 miles and watched 270 teams in action during the past year, Simms, as effervescent as ever, emphasized that a boy's football ability, leadership on and off the campus, class room grades and general attitude were used as the measuring factors in determining his qualifications for the All-America Prep team.

"Because of the bulkiness of the field," Simms went on, "we were, as usual, forced to divide the nominees, 3,989 in number, into seven teams." I'd be the first to admit that there was a very thin line between some of the boys on the first team and some of those named on the second.

Fullerton a Standout

"However, we have one standout this time in Bruce Fullerton, fullback at Central High School, Little Rock. His votes snowballed into a near-landslide and he almost passed our all-time high vote-getter, the late Harry Agganis of Lynn, Mass., captain of our first All-America Prep team in 1948 and later an All-America at Boston University and a first baseman with the Boston Red Sox."

All members of the seven teams, as well as those on the honorable mention list, will be eligible to play in the tenth annual 1958 All-America Prep Classic football game in Crump Stadium, Memphis, Tenn., the early part of next August, providing, of course, they meet the requirements of the selecting committee, as well as the East and West coaches, who will be in charge of the game. One outstanding requirement will be that the boys must be high school graduating seniors.

"The Mississippi River serves as the dividing line in selecting the East and West teams," Simms said. "All of these games, with the exception of the first, have been played in Memphis. Corpus Christi, Tex., was the site of our first contest."

"Coaches who have handled the boys were: Harold (Red) Drew, former head football man at Mississippi and Ala-
